Baa baa black sheep, have you any wool?

Yes sir, yes sir, three bags full—

but now we have to shear it ...

Clip, clip, clip, clip (x3)

Cut off the wool—but leave a little bit!

Baa baa black sheep, have you any wool?

Yes sir, yes sir, three bags full—

but now we have to make the bags ...

Stitch, stitch, stitch, stitch, stitch, stitch

Stitch up the bags, like so

Baa baa black sheep, have you any wool?

Yes sir, yes sir, three bags full—

Now we push the wool in ...

Press it down, press it down, press it down

Sew up the bags to take to town!

Track 6: Old King Cole was a Tolerant Soul

Old King Cole was a tolerant soul
And a tolerant soul was he
He called for the children in our class
To play a symphony
Now we don't know how Mozart goes
And this is what we played ...

Our orchestra is not like the ones
You hear on the radio
With steel drums from Jamaica
And a bass from Ontario
Drums from Samoa and Africa
Make a special sound ...

Our chime bells come from Austria
Xylophones from Saigon
English sleigh bells join
The Indonesian gamelan
Our cymbals come from India
Tambourines from Rome ...

Our teacher plays the accordion
And we make our shakers here!
Our maracas come from Mexico
Our rattles from Zaire
Castanets from Valencia
Guiros from Brazil ...

Track 5: The Sticky Song

When I was small I felt extra great
When I got hold of the cellotape
I could stick anything when I was the boss
I could even stick my mouth shut—right across!
Mmm ...

When I was small I made quite a racket
Till I got hold of the band-aid packet
I'd cover every scratch or mark I had found
And plaster my mouth—this is how I would sound
Mmm ...

But now I am big, I feel kind of smug
I can peel it off with hardly a tug
I can help the little kids and when there's a riot
I give them all a piece to keep them quiet!
Mmm ...

'b' 'ow' – x^l x^l – bow!
't' 'oe' – x^l x^l – toe!
Let me show you the bow on my toe!
